MRS. SPRAGUE'S WHEREABOUT NOT YET DISCOVERED.

Mr. Sprague's Denial of the Earlier Reports---She sent her Property in Advance--On the road to Boston

NEW YORK, September 2.—The following from the Times embraces the main points in the specials published this morning regarding the Sprague affair:

The reports recently published in the New York and Brooklyn papers, regarding Mrs. Sprague's flight from Canonchet, are contradicted by all persons interested, except the lady herself. Her counsel are discouraged at her departure, and do not know what her intentions are or where she is. They say, however, that she will not live with her husband. The latter is calm and resigned. He says he never interfered with his wife's correspondence, counsel or friends. The reports of the use of physical force, which are distinctly denied by Mr. Sprague, are corroborated by the testimony of A. H. Watson, of Providence, the guests at Canonchet and the lady's counsel. The rumors of intoxication are unfounded, as the Governor has been abstemious for several months. He was asleep when his wife went away. She had sent her jewelry, papers and furniture in advance, which fact was known to Mr. Sprague. It appears now that Mrs. Sprague returned to Canonchet solely for the purpose of obtaining possession of her daughters. Mr. Sprague employs no counsel, but occasionally consults a country lawyer. Mrs. Sprague arrived Sunday noon at Lonsdale, R. I., a little village north of Providence. Her horses were used up, and she gave her driver $20. She then gave Warren Mosher, a stable keeper, $50 for getting a fresh team ready. Her new driver has not yet returned. She is on her way to Boston, and avoids the principal roads and dreads pursuers.

THE FEVER SPREADING.

A New Town Stricken with the Plague---Deaths in Menphis Yesterday.

MEMPHIS, September 2.—Two new cases were reported this morning. Otto Astorious and and Daniel Fowlkes. Four deaths occurred since last night, George W. Matthews, Patrick McLane, Thomas MacMahon, Eugene Williams (colored). The fever has evidently gained foothold. At Buntyn station, six miles east of the city on the Memphis & Charleston R. John McKintosh, of Cornhill, E. C. London, whose checks were returned Friday, and who was declared defaulter on the Stock Exchange yesterday, has failed, his liabilities are eleven thousand. His failure is due to the fact that for a long period his clients had received large differences on a rise in the Erie sharps, but on reaction they failed to pay.

Important Arrest.

RICHMOND, September 2.—Postmaster Forbes, of this city arrested a white man named E. R. Williamson at Meherrin on the Richmond & Danville railroad to-day on a charge of committing depredations on mails. The arrest was the result of a telegram from the special post office agent T. B. Long to post master Forbes requesting the latter too look out for mail depredators. Williamson was sent to Greensboro tonight.

Some Advantages of Smoking.

From Beliqne Hearnfanæ, 1721.

I have been told that in the last great plague at London (i. e., in 1665) none that kept tobacconist's shop had the plague. It is certain that smoking it was looked upon as a most excellent preservative, in so much that even children were obliged to smoke. And I remember that I heard formerly Tom Rogers, who was yeoman beadle, say that when he was that year, when the plague raged, a school boy at Eaton, all the boys of that schooi were obliged to smoke in the school every morning, and that he never was whipped so much in his life as he was one morning, for not smoking.

A Chinaman Who Believes in Hell.

New York Times.

A Chinaman, Sam Sing by name, was complainant in the Court of Special Sessions yesterday, against an Irishman named Matthew Monahan. On Sunday night last he stopped at a Bowery lodging house, and while sleep, his money was taken from his clothes, he said by Monahan. Monahan's counsel objected to Sing testifying, on the ground, that he was ignorant of the nature of an oath. "Do you know what it is to tell the truth?" asked the court. "Yes, I do," said the Chinaman, angrily. "What will happen to you if you don't tell the truth?" "I'd go to hell," cried the witness, with an abruptness and vigor that startled the spectators and silenced the opposing counsel. Everybody laughed, but the Chinaman was allowed to proceed. He said the prisoner took his money from the pockets of his trousers, which were hanging on the wall of the lodging-house. His original affidavit was produced. It stated that the money was taken from his coat. Sam Sing could not account for the discrepancy in his statement, and the prisoner was discharged.

Not Creditable to Tammany.

Rochester Morning Herald.

We say frankly that this manifesto against their Governor by the men who helped elect him does the latter no credit. If it were true it might be excusable, but much of it is notoriously false. We do not approve of every act of the Governor's administration and are decidedly opposed to some of his pet hobbies; but he is not, and could not in the nature of things be, the corrupt and at the same time incapable executive described by Tammany.

Overshot the Mark.

Rochester Morning Herald.

Tammany has fairly overshot the mark. It has exhibited so much malice and passion as to excite the suspicion among Democrats not mixed up in the quarrel that the leaders of the movement care a good deal more for their personal grievances and the fortunes of their faction than they do for the Democratic party.

Mr. Sherman will Explain.

The English commission to investigate agriculture, will soon be gathered on this side of the water, and Mr. Sherman will explain to them how he made the big crops and created the foreign demand.

James and John.

Boston Globe.

When James G. Blaine heard of the failure of John Sherman in the Ohio campaign, he was visibly affected. The interest which Jeems takes in the movements and efforts of the great financier is exceedingly touching.

A Question of Safeguards.

Washington Post.

Mr. Garfield calls the Federal bulldozers and the bayonet at the polls, "the safeguards of National elections." In the opinion of Mr. Garfield and his school of politicians, no election is safely guarded without an adequate arrangement for insuring a Republican majority. This has been abundantly demonstrated by the investigations of the Wallace committee.

Webb and Boyton to try it Again.

Arrangements have been finally concluded at Boston by which Captain Webb and Boyton will have a swimming match next Thursday, off Nantasket Beach. The course will be just off the beach, in mile stretches. Boyton, it is said, wagers $1,000 that he can go twelve and a half miles in his rubber suit while Webb covers ten and a half with only the usual swimming costume. If either party leaves the water before the prescribed distance is accomplished he will forfeit the race and stakes.

SHERMAN SOLUS.

THE NEWS THAT THE LATE MAILS GIVE.

Secretary Sherman Seriously Says So ---Calico Charley's Canvass---Florida Feeling For Funds.

WASHINGTON, September 1.—Secretary Sherman was in attendance at his desk in the Treasury Department today. He expresses himself as entirely confident that Foster will be elected in Ohio. He says that the Republicans are making a superb canvass—a canvass that is sure to bring out a full vote, and when the Republicans poll their full vote the State is sure to be theirs. The Secretary gives as his reason for returning to Washington so soon that he had business at the department which required his immediate presence. He had remained in Ohio as long as he had intended when he started there.

BUSINESS VERSUS POLITICS.

Ex-Senators Mitchell, of Oregon, and Conover, of Florida, arrived in the city yesterday. Mitchell is just from home, and comes east to represent some railroad interests. He says the people in his State are giving very little attention to politics at the present time. Their great concern is to get a through railroad connection with San Francisco, so that they can have direct communication with the rest of the States. As for his own party, the Republicans, are concerned, the feeling is strong for Grant.

THE FLORIDA SHIP CANAL.

Mr. Conover says that the people of Florida, at the present time, are full of the question of the building of a ship canal across the State. He says that the railroad interests of the State are opposing the canal project, but it is his opinion that the people at large are favorable to its construction, and that there will be an extra session of the legislature called to give give the canal company the necessary charter to proceed with the work.

FAVORABLE TO WOMEN AS CLERKS.

Mr. Walker, superintendent of the census, gives notice to women applicants for the position of enumerators that he favors their appointment, but he will leave their selection to the discretion of the supervisors of the census when appointed.

A REBELLIOUS TEXAS CITY.

Houston Enforcing its Quarantine in Defiance of State and Federal Authority.

N. Y. Star, 1st.

HOUSTON, August 31.—Yesterday afternoon a train left Galveston for Houston to test whether this city would enforce its quarantine in disobedience to the Governor's proclamation ordering it to be removed. With the train went a United States Marshal and forty deputies, a United States Commissioner and District Attorney, it being the intention of these officers to arrest all persons attempting to stop the train, and try them for interfering with the United States mails. The train was stopped at the county line by the Houston Health Officer, who was promptly arrested, as was the Health officer at Websterville. Both were released on bond, and the train proceeded. When the train arrived at the city limits last night it was halted by the whole police force of Houston. The United States Marshals having deputized about one hundred persons on the train, they arrested the police. On entering the city the United States officers were themselves arrested by the city authorities, and taken before Mayor Burk, in the office of the Chief of Police. The Chief announced that each person arrested would be required to give a bond of $50 for appearance at the City Court on Monday to answer a charge of violating the quarantine law. United States District Attorney Homan said that he and his party acted under authority of the United States Government and by orders from Governor Roberts, of Texas. He showed dispatches from the Governor to the conductor, directing him to take the train through at all hazards. The prisoners refused to give bail Mr. Homan announcing that they would immediately apply to Judge Masterson for a writ of habeas corpus. The passengers were released, and allowed to proceed; but the trainmen and United States officers were held, and were last night trying to obtain a hearing before the District Judge. Great indignation is felt here against the United States officers for interfering.

In the Wilds.

Wilmington Star, 2d.

The many friends in this community of Mr. Thomas R. Owen, Jr., formerly of Tarboro, in this State, but now Probate Judge of Boulder county, Colorado, will no doubt be pleased to hear of him. He is at present engaged with a party in prospecting in the Yellowstone country, and writes from Camp Custer, Montana, August 15th, that they had just visited the Custer battle ground—"a sad scene; skulls and skeletons all around, and silence everywhere." He represents the country they are traveling through as being fine for cattle, with plenty of grass and water, and any quantity of big game.

Edison's New Telephone.

Mr. Edison exhibited on Saturday, before the Association for the Advancement of Science, at Saratoga, his new eleatro-chemical telephone. In its capacity to convey the voice to a roomful of persons without any earpiece exists the difference between it and the ordinary telephone. A singing and a talking voice can be conveyed distinctly at the same time. Mr. Edison surprised his audience by asserting a belief that ere long it will be possible for an audience in Saratoga to hear through the electro-chemical telephone a person making a speech in New York, and that in time a concert may be given whenever desired by artists in another city.

A Splendid Literary Effort.

Washington Post.

No literary effort of the times has had a more general circulation than the able and eloquent epistle of Judge Shellabarger, acknowledging the receipt of Mr. Hayes' and Mr. Sherman's payments of hush money to Casanave. And we feel entirely authorized to remark that no honest and patriotic citizen has read it without a feeling of shame at the confessed infamy of the parties implicated.

Kalloch's History Condensed.

Chicago Tribune.

The Rev. I. S. Kalloch, who has recently helped to create considerable of an excitement in San Francisco, has filled out the old adage, "Jack at all trades and good at none." He has been preacher, editor, railroad director and superintendent, Indian agent, politician, lecturer, hotel proprietor, fancy farmer, horse jockey, legislator, revivalist, etc., etc. When in Kansas, in 1875, Kallock was a member of the Legislature, and a warm supporter of the well-remembered Pomeroy for United States Senator. Kalloch at first was a candidate for Senator himself, but when the Legislature met he appeared as the leader of the Pomeroy forces, and managed the latter's case up to the time that Senator York made that startling announcement of fraud in joint convention, and sent the $7,000 of blood-money to the clerk's desk to be counted. Kalloch then threw up the sponge. A friend of his, who knows him well, says that "he was a man of wonderful magnetism and powerful eloquence, whether in the pulpit, on the stage, or stump. He was constituted, mentally and physically, for a leader of men. Where he failed was in the lack of sincerity, fidelity and constancy. He made many friends, but retained few; people came to him as a hero, but he used his talents and education to such little purpose that no man would point to him as an example for his son."

THIRTY HOURS IN A CHEST.

A Young Girl Who Attempts to Aid in a Burglary is Forced to Remain in a Chest.

Among the prisoners who sat in the Central Station dock on Saturday afternoon, was a young girl, but sixteen years of age, who, in a brief period, has had the most sensational experience as a burglars' "kid," comprising a forced concealment in a chest in a West Philadelphia residence for the long period of thirty hours. She said her name was Katie Du Roy, and that two months ago she came here from Reading, but declined to say where she lived.

The house where this occurred is located at No. 121 South Thirty-ninth street, and is occupied by W. H. Harrison with his family and domestics; and it was the design of burglars, the names of whom are not disclosed, to make it the field of a night's operation. They found in Katie a willing tool, and on Sunday evening, the 10th of August, she stole into the house, leaving her shoes in the cellar and creeping up stairs into the servants' room, Mrs. Harrison being in confinement that evening the household was all astir, and just after the girl had gone up stairs, one of the servants entered the room. The young thief crawled under the bed, but not before she was observed. The servant shrieked with fright and rushed from the room. Mr. Harrison hurried up stairs, heard the servant's story, instituted a search, but found no one. During the entire night, owing to Mrs. Harrison's condition, the family was constantly moving about the house. Day came, but nothing more from the alarm of the night before. Another night followed, and the family sought repose, wearied from a long season of watching. On the morning of the 12th Mr. Harrison arose to find that his clothes had been rifled of what valuables were in them. Going down stairs he saw that some one had breakfasted before dawn, and found everything in confusion, but nothing of value carried away. The back part of the house was open, but bore no evidence of violence, and had clearly been opened from the inside.

Mr. Harrison, shortly after this strange occurrence, read of a girl who had been found secreted under a bed in a house on Thirty-fourth street, below walnut, and he went to Moyamensing to see her, believing that she was the party who had created such havoc on his premises. He had an interview with her, when she confessed that she had spent a night and a day three weeks ago secreted in his house.

Katie DuRoy being called upon to explain at the hearing, made a full confession. When the servant girl rushed from the room in fright she looked around for a place of concealment, and observing a large sized chest standing in the chamber, she jumped into it and closed down the lid. Fortunately, the family, in their search, had overlooked this, and she was not caught. Here she remained all that night and all of the next day and into the night, without food or drink, while her accomplices were waiting and wondering without. On the second night, when all were asleep, she issued from her retreat, and having appeased her hunger from a meal which had been spread for the servants' breakfast, she slipped away. The magistrate held her in $1,500 bail to answer at court.

Worse than Slavery.

A mass meeting of workingmen was held last Saturday in Hamilton Park, New York. Addresses were made by David Conroy, Mr. McCurry and others, setting forth that the condition of the workingmen at present is worse than slavery, and that the Republican party had persecuted the working classes and were responsible for tramps. Resolutions were adopted in dorsing Denis Kearney for his masterly leadership of the workingmen's party in California, and his action in advocating the ballot and not the bullet, also declaring that none but workingmen shall be elected to office, as they understand the requirements of the working classes thoroughly.

Not to be Entirely Relied Upon.

Chicago Times.

It is the remark of an Eastern paper that "when Senator Blaine says, 'I feel it in my bones that we're going to sweep the State,' it is time to give up all doubts about Maine." But may not Senator Blaine mistake the feeling and its significance? It may be a remnant of that old sunstroke.

FLIGHT OF MRS. SPRAGUE.

HER ESCAPE AS NARRATED BY HER FRIENDS.

Complaining that Governor Sprague Abused Her---"I fear for my Life if I Return."

New York Sun, 1st.

The people at Narragansett Pier are boiling with excitement over the escape of Mrs. Sprague. Mrs. Sprague claims that ever since she returned to Canonchet with her children she has been subjected to many annoyances by the Governor, which culminated on Saturday in an actual outburst on his part. Her friends say that the Governor, coming home on Friday morning in an intoxicated condition, suddenly went into the room where the nurses were dressing the children, and seeing Mrs. Sprague there, said: "I'll show you who is master here," and without any further words, took hold of her arm and shoulder, dragged her around the room, and attempted to throw her out of the window, saying before witnesses that he would do so. He was prevented from carrying his threat into execution by those present.

The children were half dressed, and were screaming with fright. Mrs. Sprague began quickly to make preparations to leave the place, and Saturday afternoon, about half-past 5, quietly took her departure, accompanied by her three children, their nurses, and her luggage. So well were her plans arranged, that the Governor and his nephew, Arthur Watson, who were keeping a vigilant watch upon her movements, knew nothing about her departure until the party had a good hour's start, and were many miles away. Mr. Watson, upon finding them gone, immediately started down town with the colored cook, and drove to the depot and hotels, in hopes of finding some clue to their whereabouts. Finding none, he turned back, and went half way between the depot and the old pier, met the Governor, who, in hot haste, changed places with the cook, and started at a breakneck speed for Kingston Junction, about eight miles away.

Leaving the Pier at about the same time as the train for Kingston, he spurred his horse to a race-course speed, and then began a race between the Governor and the train, he hoping to cut them off if they had got on board at any out of the way place along the line of that road. When Conductor Hale's train arrived at Kingston, the Governor was standing on the platform, with mud-bedabbled coat and excited face, watching for signs of the missing party. He accosted Conductor Hale with, "Have you lugged off my children?" Mr. Hale told him he had seen nothing of them, and, after looking through the boat train, and inquiring of the officials at the Kingston depot, the Governor started back for the Pier, as was supposed, as all traces of his movements were lost from that point. Willie, his son, who has sided with his father during all this unhappy affair, was started off on the road to Tower Hill to Wakefield, but returned unsuccessful in his search.

There are many theories as to the manner in which Mrs. Sprague managed the affair so adroitly. It seemed improbable that she could have taken the cars, for no train left the Pier between 5½ and 7½ o'clock, and her departure was discovered between those hours. Her son, Willie, was at the depot keeping watch in all the interval between the time of the discovery and the departure of the last train. The general impression is that Mrs. Sprague left in a steam yacht, and that, too, from the pier of the Newport boat. A strange-looking and very fast steam yacht was seen hovering about the pier all the afternoon, and suddenly went up to the Newport boat dock; and after waiting about ten minutes, then steamed rapidly away, perhaps with Mrs. Sprague on board.

It is claimed by Mrs. Sprague's friends that she had good cause for departing from Canonchet in such a mysterious and extraordinary manner; while, on the other hand, it is maintained on behalf of Governor Sprague, that he was justified by the facts in keeping a close espionage on all his wife's movements and in keeping her a virtual prisoner at Canonchet. At the meeting at Conductor Hale's residence at the Pier, which was the first interview between the husband and wife after the expulsion of Senator Conkling from Canonchet, it was decided that Governor Sprague should have control of the children, who had been taken with her by Mrs. Sprague when she left her husband's house on the day of that memorable encounter.

After this decision as to the disposal of the children, which was concurred in by her counsel, Mrs. Sprague was greatly agitated. During the interview, when she was asked by Governor Sprague whether she would return to Canonchet, she said, "I fear for my life if I do."

"I never harmed any one," said the Governor, "and you will be entirely safe."

"But Mrs. Sprague persisted in her assertion that Governor Sprague had several times before threatened her life, and that she could not be safe if alone with him in the house. She remained at Conductor Hale's for some time after the departure of Governor Sprague and the children, and there her agitation had assumed such a form that her counsel, Mr. Thompson, Rowland Hazzard's partner, concluded that it would be best for her to follow the children. Accordingly, he sent to one of the hotels for Mr. Skinner, a lawyer from Ohio, who had been an intimate friend of the late Chief Justice Chase, Mrs. Sprague's father. Mr. Skinner, Mrs. Sprague and a Miss Emma Fosdick, who had accompanied Mrs. Sprague to the Pier from Providence went to Canonchet. Governor Sprague consented that Mrs. Skinner should remain at Canonchet, but said that he would not receive Miss Fosdick, who accordingly went back to her hotel.

Since that time—Friday, Aug. 15—Mrs. Sprague has remained at Canonchet. It has been said that Governor Sprague at once directed that the servants should receive no orders from Mrs. Sprague; that all telegrams and messages to her should be first submitted to him, and that his wife should be limited to one room, in the upper part of the house. When she went out driving a trusted servant always accompanied her. He denied admission to many of her friends, and even to her counsel; but this, he said, was to keep her from influences that he believed would not be for her good. His reason, as given for this course, was that he desired Mrs. Sprague should make up her mind as to her future course, unbiased by outside advice; that, if she ever left the house again, she could not return to it; and, in any event, that she should not take the children with her. The rigid espionage established was to prevent her from abducting the children. Mrs. Sprague's friends say that she was in constant fear of some sudden outbreak, when neither her own life nor the lives of her children would be safe from the ungovernable anger of the husband and father.

The children are four in number, Willie, aged 13; Ethel, aged 9; Kate, aged 5, and Portia, aged 4. Willie remains with his father; the three little girls Mrs. Sprague took with her.

Governor Sprague will undoubtedly exhaust every means to discover the whereabouts of the children, and will as certainly use every legal effort to recover them. A suit for separation, brought by either husband or wife, will probably be at once instituted to settle the right to the control of the children.

The New Racket.

Puck.

Sauntering up to the counter, he began to harpoon the eatables at the free-lunch table, and as he stowed away the articles under his vest, he began, in a tone of melancholy sadness: "Gentlemen, my actions may seem ill-bred, but with a half-starved man hunger must be satisfied before good manners can be attended to." The bar-tender reached for a club, and told the apologetic stranger that if he wouldn't leave at once he'd go for him. "My dear sir," resumed the gaunt-looking new arrival, with a deprecatory wave of the hand and a childlike smile that was spoiled by his having a mouthful of pickled cabbage to attend to, "I can understand your astonishment at what may seem imprudence on the part of an entire stranger, and I am not offended at the anger it causes you to display. But when I say that I am a poor, homeless, wandering refugee from the fever-stricken city of Memphis——" Five schooners of beer we e laid down upon the counter with a simultaneousness that showed prompt decision, and five panic-stricken men peramberulated toward the door with a unity of action that was admirable. The man behind the bar had vanished into airy nothingness, and the weary stranger polished off the free lunch and gathered in schooner after schooner until, beer laden, he rambled toward the street. That saloon was as bare as the upper lip of a 16-year old youth, and the poor, homeless, wandering refugee from the fever-stricken city of Memphis, foot-sore and wo-begone, turned into Beekman street with the dazed, sad countenance of one whom life had left nothing worth living for. As he passed into Theater alley, two shabbily dressed tramps approached him and enquired in accents of anxiety: "Well, Bill, how does the new racket work?" The poor, homeless, wandering refugee from the fever-stricken city of Memphis, who had so suddenly descended to the plain "Bill," he laconically replied with a deflection on the left optic: "Immense!"

Garfield on Grant.

New York World.

As to the candidacy of General Grant, General Garfield has been saying some suggestive things. For example:

"Whether Grant will be renominated depends largely upon the behavior of the Democrats next winter in Washington. If they show a determined purpose to break down the safeguards of national elections; a determined purpose to count in a Democratic President and to subordinate National authority to State supremacy, Republicans may say, 'We must take a man who, if fairly elected, will take and administer his office.' If such a contingency as that arises, the Republican party will suppress a considerable dislike to the third-term principle and take Grant. But should the elections this fall be strongly in favor of the Republicans and show the Democrats that the course they have pursued has imperilled their future success, and should they in consequence behave less extravagantly during the winter, then I think the Republicans will deem it safe to follow old traditions and make no third-term nomination."

Naturally General Garfield would prefer to see Mr. Sherman beaten for 1880, even by General Grant, as that would leave Ohio free to do General Garfield justice in 1884. But how is the Republican party to take the field at all in 1880, excepting upon issues which Senator Hoar and General Garfield both say will demand the candidature of Grant? Of course the Democracy will press the repeal of the Davenport law, and of course the Democracy "will subordinate National authority to State supremacy" whenever and wherever the Supreme Court shall say that the Constitution commands such subordination. The Democrats are pledged to wipe out, not (as the stalwarts falsely represent) every vestige of that war legislation which enforces the destruction of slave labor and secures the citizenship and voting rights of the negroes, but every vestige of that Radical legislation in war or in peace which has taken away from any State, the exclusive right and power to decide who may lawfully approach the ballot-boxes of that State. "The manner" of elections of members of Congress the Federal Government may regulate, but the Democracy will never consent that it shall regulate "the qualifications" of voters or decide who is qualified under State laws.

"The Modern Cinder Ella."

Whene'er the whistle tooted,
Out from the nearest window,
Their popped a pair of female eyes,
To gather in a cinder,
So constant was this habit,
On the part of Arabella,
That they changed her name and call her
The modern cinder Ella.

Oyst R's!

Ah, woe is me, ah, woe is me.
My dreams of bliss have flown away,
My summer dreams of peace have fled,
My joy is up the spout to-day—
Sigheth the oyster.

The oyster now doth dream and sigh,
Beneath the incandescent stars,
While tears pour down its mellow face;
Confound the R's.
Most essentially.

The New York Republican State convention will be held at Saratoga, and it is likely to be a lively affair. There is a general disposition among the more decent Republicans to sit down on Conkling heavily this time, if he shall attempt to force his henchman, Cornell, upon the party, in the capacity of a gubernatorial candidate, and that seems to be Roscoe's idea. The party is split into numerous discordant factions, with differences which it will be hard to reconcile. It is devoutly to be hoped that the Democrats who meet next week will profit by the example set them by their Republican friends.

NEVADA GAMBLING.

THE EXPERIENCES OF AN EXTREMELY INNOCENT JURY.

Calling the Turn steady for Two Years and never Caught once---"Is Tome Point clear to the Jury?"

Virginia City Chronicle.

The case of John Burns came up before Justice Knox Saturday. The man is one of those characters known as a check guerrilla. He was accused of having picked up a $20 piece from the faro table at the Capitol Saloon, the money belonging to a player who was in a half intoxicated condition. Burns demanded a jury trial, and when the selection had been made, each juryman was asked whether he had any prejudices against the game. The following were the experiences of the twelve:

Juror No. 1—Have played a little; lost $1,200 at a sitting once at Simpson's Corner; had won the money at poker the night before; won it of the fellow who dealt; have no prejudice against the game.

Juror No 2.—Have played faro some; lost nine straight bets at once at the Sawdust Corner—just my fool luck; think the game is all right; used to play faro, but haven't played now for over a week.

Juror No. 3—Dropped about $40 once at Orndorff's trying to call the turn; no prejudices.

Juror No. 4—Play faro occasionally when I have money; won $2,000 one night at the Palace—bursted the game; went back and tried to burst it a few nights after; had to spar for my grub all the rest of the week; think I could beat the game blind if I had the capital; no prejudice.

Juror No. 5.—Am familiar with faro—slightly; stepped in Joe Steward's one day and tapped the game $500 in one deal; called the turn for $100, and then quit playing because the limit wasn't big enough; won enough to pay up that assessment of $5 on my Justice stock; think it a good game.

Juror No. 6.—Always liked faro when it was square; think there are some square games; but the splits give the game a big percentage.

Juror No. 7—Got $5,000 out of the rise in Ophir, and got ready to start to the States, (Here the juror wiped away a tear, and His Honor seemed much affected.) I struck one of the games—no matter which one it was—and in two days hadn't a red cent.

The remaining five jurors related their experiences in a most affecting manner, and but one was found who had any prejudice against the game—he said he never won a bet in his life; he always coppered and played open at the wrong time. He's been calling the steady for two years, and never caught once. He thought faro was a swindle, but admitted he had been playing it the night before. He was excused.

George Kritzer, the dealer of the game, testified as follows: "I was dealing at the time McCarty came in and called for chips. He had won about $80 when Tome first showed up; McCarty had the jack coppered, taking in the tray and queen——"

The Court—Does the jury comprehend the situation?

The jurors nodded simultaneously, and witness continued:

"The tray lost, the jack won. So it was a stand-off, and——"

The Court—Is this point clear to the jury?

The jurors again bowed with military precision.

Witness—Then, after two turns, he planked down a $20 piece on top of the chips on the jack, and this man Tome reached for it. As soon as I saw him muzzle the sugar I sang out, but he slid off and was getting away with it, when Officer Hanks snatched it and made him give it up.

Jailor McCarty related the admissions of Tome in jail. He admitted taking the money, but excused his conduct on the ground that he might as well have it as the game.

The jury stood eleven for conviction and one for acquittal, and being unable to agree were discharged, as was also the accused.

Scriptural Authority.

"In the early ages of the world perfumes were constantly used, and they have the high sanction of scriptural authority." The patrons of perfumes at all times have been the most polished people in the world, and in this age no refined lady or gentleman considers their toilet complete without the use of some delightful scent like Dr. Price's Unique Perfumes, which are really the gems of all odors.

His Last Drink.

A man in New York, describing himself as George Auchter, a German tailor, aged fifty-two years, was arrested on Saturday night and locked up on a charge of intoxication. This morning he was found dead in his cell. On a paper in his pocket was the following: "I have been in New York four weeks and drank up everything; could find no work; so I'll take my last drink. G. A. Hallelujah! Amen." Strichnine was also found in his pocket.

Women and the Census.

New York Star.

Several ladies have already applied to General Francis Walker, of the census bureau, to be appointed as canvassers in taking the new census in the various cities of the union. The General, who is not adverse to their proposition, deeming the work in many places suitable to women, has referred them to the supervisors of the census, when appointed.

Is it Possible

That a remedy made of such common, simple plants as Hops, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, &c., make so many and such marvelous and wonderful cures as Hop Bitters do? It must be, for when old and young, rich and poor, Pastor and Doctor, Lawyer and Editor, all testify to having been cured by them, we must believe and doubt no longer. See other column.

False Impression.

It is generally supposed by physicians and the people generally that Dyspepsia can not invariably be cured, but we are pleased to say that Green's August Flower has never, to our knowledge, failed to cure Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint in all its forms, such as Sour Stomach, Costiveness, Sick Headache, palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, bad taste in the mouth, etc. Out of the 50,000 dozen bottles sold last year, not a single failure was reported, but thousands of complimentary letters received from druggists, of wonderful cures. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. Sample bottles 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. For sale by all druggists.

DAILY NEWS

GEO. C. JORDAN, Editor and Prop'r.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 1879.

THE first bale was received on Monday, but we have learned of no tobacco sales here as yet.

WHAT has become of the "boom" started a few weeks since in relation to a tobacco warehouse in Raleigh?

THE Tribune talks about repudiation in the South. We would like to know what the stock in that paper held by the late Bayard Taylor is worth.

IF land-owners in Raleigh expect ever to make their property more valuable they will have to bestir themselves in the matter of increasing business.

MR. GARFIELD says that twenty thousand people have left that State for the South. This accounts for the rabidness of the Okolona States, whose editor was an Ohio man.

ONE of our Winston exchanges says: "Judge Settle was in town this week looking after the tail of the "boom;" the other end is in China." Does our friend class this as a "flying jib boom?"

NEW buildings are constantly going up in Durham and Winston, and all on account of their tobacco business. Raleigh might as well have had this trade, but our people let the chance slip through their fingers.

SHOULD Mr. Foster carry Ohio, which is equivalent to Mr. Sherman's nomination for the Presidency, Judge Settle might as well give up any hope he has for the second place on the ticket. No one ever knew an Ohio man of influence to ever let an office go to any one outside the Buckeye limits. So the ticket undoubtedly will stand Sherman and Garfield.

CARTERET COUNTY is very poor at present. The late tornado almost ruined the people, as everything was blown down or swept away. They cannot pay their debts just now, and about next week Jay Gould's gold-broking and bondholders' organ will class this as another case of Southern repudiation.

HAD Mr. Jay Gould's leader writer extended a little Christian charity toward the South instead of classing the people as murderers and thieves, and thus obstructing emigration thither, the States that he so scornfully lashes for their poverty might have been in a better condition financially and able to meet their obligations when due.

A POLITICAL PURGATORY.

Until within the past few days the exact position that Ohio held in the National political field has never been fully understood. Since the close of the war she has been regularly announced as the "pivotal State," whatever that might mean, and "as Ohio goes so goes the Union" has passed into a common saying, a saying that would apply equally as well to any other State that chanced to be on the winning side. For instance, in 1872 General Grant would have been easily elected without the aid of the Buckeye State, and as for 1876 there were three States that could furnish a better title to the claim of "piyotal," to wit: Florida, Louisiana and Oregon. These two late instances are sufficient to dispose of Ohio's absurd pretensions.

But there is one title that Ohio in all truth may claim, providing the statement made by Mr. Garfield is correct, and that is a "Political Purgatory." He says that seven hundred and fifty thousand human beings have entered Ohio on its eastern border only to emerge from the western border; that most of them enter the State as Democrats and leave it Republicans. Precisely the knowledge of the nature of the medicament that causes this political purge has not been vouchsaved us. We are well aware that the President (he an Ohio man, by the way) has something like one hundred and ten thousand offices at his bestowal, but surely he cannot give them all to those who happen to enter Ohio carpet bag in hand, and beside he could only furnish one-seventh of them with offices.

But with all this sudden and surprising change of political belief it is a singular fact that the two great parties preserve their equilibrium—their relative strength remains unchanged. To harmonize Mr. Garfield's statement with the foregoing fact is a hard matter; yet it must be done, in order that the Ohio Congressman may not be set down as being utterly devoid of truth, and to this task we set ourself. There can only be one rational way of accounting for it. This large influx into Ohio may taste of Republicanism as a new fruit on entering the State, but when they take up their westward tramp they spit it out as bitter in the extreme.

POOR CASANAVE.

The affidavit made by Mr. Casanave recently in regard to the part that he played in the noted Louisiana Returning Board frauds, in 1876, and for which service he states he was promized due reward but never received it, fully corroborates the statement made in the majority report of the Potter Investigating Committee:

An investigation into the conduct of a party in power, conducted by a committee set on foot by the opposition, is necessarily subject to great difficulties and embarrassment. The power of such a committee to elicit truth is limited to the willingness of witnesses to speak it; for when witnesses choose to withhold or prevent the truth they can do so without fear of punishment, since punishment is alone lodged in the hands of those for whom the truth is withheld or perverted. Men are naturally unwilling to admit frauds in which they have participated, especially when they gain nothing by the admission; and they have no inducement to admit their participation in such a frauds to a committee which has nothing to give them. Beyond the advantage of telling the truth for conscience sake, the solace of chagrin at a want of due recognition, or the hope that a change of parties may bring reward for their confessions, they have no impelling motive for such admissions.

Mr. Casanave claimed, and with reason, it must be confessed, that the contract made by the returning board with Mr. Sherman and others of the "visiting statesmen" had not been carried out as far as he was concerned. The only recognition of his services, if they ever were recognized, the record tells us was the appointment of his brother to a small position in the custom house. His property was about to be sold for the benefit of the lawyers who had defended the board. His plea for "recognition" had been ignored, and he therefore had resolved to make a clean breast of the whole affair. How much he would have told there is no means of knowing; suffice it to say that the money was raised for him, President Hayes putting $500 into the "pot," and thus besmirching his name by tacitly admitting that he was aware that his so-called election was fraudulent.

But the country is not through with Mr. Casanave. Five thousand dollars will not last for ever; and when that is gone he will want more and will get it. Mr. Sherman will have to pay to keep this man's mouth still.

The returning board scheme happily is done away with for the future; but like Frankenstein's monster it will return to plague the inventors for some time to come. When the present administration comes to an end these rascals that upset a State and defrauded a Nation will be kicked out of their positions, and then Messrs. Hayes, Sherman and others will have to pay their demands from time to time or have their whole game exposed. Mr. Sherman, for this reason, will make desperate efforts for the Presidency.

A Curious Prediction.

Sometime since the world was agog over "Mother Shipton's Prophecy," in which all the wonders of invention were announced and winding up with the statement that the world would come to an end in 1881. This fantastic idea was exploded by the author stating that he wrote it but a few years ago. And now comes Dr. Albert Marsh, of Brooklyn, N. Y., with the original of a rhyming prediction made in 1787 at Sherbrook, Canada, and afterward published, in 1813, in the Green Mountain (Vt.) Chronicle, a copy of which Dr. Marsh has in his possession. The following is the prediction with notes:

Columbia, home of libertie,
Shall not twenty rulers see,
Ere there shall be battle smoke,
Ere peace shall seem to be broke,
And in waves of peril tost
The ancient order shall be deemed lost.
[Hayes is the 19th President.]
The first shall, too, the second be
If the Fates tell Truth as even he;
Where sits the sire as sits the son,
But not the son's son. 1
And ere the son shall ruler be
One place shall send three;
Three with one shall make four, 2
And there shall be no more.

1 Charles Francis Adams can't be President.
2 Tyler was the fourth from Virginia.

The first from these fecund loins
In death his predecessor joins; 1
Who beneath his son shall pass
And in a house that different was.
The next one shall have peace and war; 2
The third shall brook no kingly star;
When the quarter century's run,
Where sat the sire shall sit the son. 3

1 Jefferson and John Adams died on the same day, July 4, 1826.
2 Madison's administration had war with England and peace and prosperity afterward.
3 John Quincy Adams inaugurated.

Then comes who should have been before,
A soldier who shall not have any war.
[Old Hickory.]
After the fox the lion shall 1
Be lordly ruler over all;
But death shall in the mansion wield
Sword surer than on the tented field, 2
After him there comes anon,
One who had friends, but shall have none, 3
The hickory shall sprout again; 4
A soldier come from battle plain.
But shall not long remain,
Nor shall his heir bear sway again.
Then a youth shall follow, who (sic)
All shall know, though none knew. 5

1 Van Buren was called a fox.
2 Harrison died almost immediately after his inauguration.
3 Tyler quarreled with his party.
4 Polk was called Young Hickory.
5 Pierce was almost unknown until nominated.

While the next to bear the rule, 1
To-morrow's sage is this day's fool;
There shall be trouble manifest,
North and South and East and West. 2
The strong man shall the weak befriend, 3
But it shall not be the end:
Under the next shall widows mourn, 4
Thousands be slain, but millions born;
Death, in the strife, shall pass him by,
But when the peace cometh he shall die. 5
A soldier after him shall be, 6
Who shall see his century.

1 Buchanan.
2 The War of Rebellion.
3 Slavery the cause.
4 Great loss of life by the war.
5 Lincoln killed after the war ended.
6 Grant seeing the Centennial.

Rule afterwards shall be got
By the one whose it was not; 1
Men shall roar, and rage, and rave,
But he shall have who shall not have. 2
When the tide of storm is o'er
Four shall make 6 and not 4. 3
He who shall be no more.
And all that's past not make a score. 4

1 Hayes.
2 He shall now be turned out.
3 A proposition is made to have the Presidential term 6 instead of 4 years.
4. What this refers to cannot yet be told. It seems to indicate that there will be no President after Hayes dies, when the presidential term is extended. Perhaps the fatalist that wrote it saw a possibility of Grant becoming Dictator or King, and as there some fools in Texas who are proselyting a religious movement and declaring that Grant shall be king it might as well be accounted for in this manner as any other.

But Columbia shall again
Rise, and fairer be than then (sic.)
Brother shall with brother speak
Whom he hath not seen a week;
Letters shall go 'neath the deep, 1
Likewise over the mountain steep;
Men shall speak to brazen ears,
That shall be mouths in after years, 2
Words spoken shall be sent through post,
So no syllable be lost; 3
A drop of water shall have then
The force of many thousand men. 4

1 Submarine telegraph.
2 Phonograph.
3 Telephone.
4 Keely's motor.

All these things shall happen when?
They shall happen—not before
Six years shall be reckoned four, 1
Thirteen shall be thirty-nine
This shall be a certain sign;
Nine and eight reversing take,
(Eight and one the nine shall make.)
When ninety-two are eighty-one, 3
All these marvels shall be done.

1 Presidential term lengthened to six years.
2 Thirteen States be thirty-nine.
3 Washington was inaugurated in 1789, and 92 years from that is 1861.

Indicted Pennsylvania Legislators.

N. Y. Sun.

HARRISBURG, Pa., August 30.—William H. Kemble entered bail this morning to the amount of $4,000 for his appearance at the November term of court, to answer the charge of corrupt solicitation of legislators and perjury. A. W. Leisenring, of Mauch Chunk, also entered bail to the amount of $2,000 to answer the same charge. The district attorney has been instructed by the grand jury to prepare indictments against Representatives C. A. Wolfe, of Union county, M. H. Silverhorn and Alfred Short, of Erie county. The charge against them is conspiracy to advise and promote corrupt solicitations.

Spread of the Yellow Fever.

Washington Post, 1st.

It is useless to disguise the fact that the yellow fever is spreading to an alarming extent in the Southwest, notwithstanding the heroic efforts of the local authorities to stamp it out. The officials of Houston, Texas, in disobeying the governor's instructions, and interfering with the United States mail, have gone beyond the limits of the law in their zeal to prevent the contagion from visiting them. The sad disaster overtaking General Hood and his family, in New Orleans, together with the fact that sporadic cases have appeared in that city, ever since the renewal of the plague at Memphis, has created a feeling of distrust, and will probably lead to that city's isolation in a measure, and consequent disruption of its commercial relations with other cities. The authorities there are, however, disinfecting the city and doing their utmost to prevent the fever from becoming epidemic. Nearly all the quarantine stations of the principal Northern Atlantic parts contain more or less infected vessels. Altogether, the outlook is more unfavorable than for weeks, and the early appearance of Jack Frost will be heartily welcomed.

Died From Chloroform.

Cuthbert Appeal.

Mr. William Spivey died Friday last from the effects of chloroform administered to have a tooth extracted. He had returned from church and called on Dr. Carter to perform the operation. He desired to have the chloroform administered, as he wished to be entirely free from the excruciating pain that follows such an operation. He was sitting in a chair when the chloroform was administered, and when the handkerchief was removed he sank down in the chair. He was carried to a bed and died in less than five minutes. He leaves a wife and five children.

Sciatica, Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Gout, and Spinal Complaints, can only be effectually cured through the blood.

For Ulcers and Eruptive Diseases of the Skin, Pustules, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, Tetter, Scaldhead, and Ringworm, VEGETINE has never failed to effect a permanent cure.

For Pains in the Back, Kidney Complaints Dropsy, Female Weakness, Leucorrhœa, arising from internal ulceration, and uterine diseases and General Debility, Vegetine acts directly upon the causes of these complaints. It invigorates and strengthens the whole system, acts upon the secretive organ, allays inflammation, cures ulceration, and regulates the bowels.

For Catarrh, Dyspepsia, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Headache, Piles, Nervousness, and General Prostration of the Nervous System, no medicine has ever given such perfect satisfaction as the Vegetine. It purifies the blood, cleanses all of the organs, and possesses a controlling power over the nervous system.

In fact, Vegetine is the best remedy yet discovered for the above diseases, and is the only reliable BLOOD PURIFIER yet placed before the public.

The Best Evidence.

The following letter from Rev. E. S. Best, Pastor of M. E. Church, Natick, Mass., will be read with interest by many physicians; also those suffering from the same disease as afflicted the son of the Rev. E. S. Best. No person can doubt this testimony, as there is no doubt about the curative powers of Vegetine.

NATICK, MASS., Jan. 1, 1874.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir, We have good reason for regarding your Vegetine a medicine of the greatest value. We feel assured that it has been the means of saving our son's life. He is now seventeen years of age. For the last two years he has suffered from necrosis of his leg, caused by scrofulous affection, and was so far reduced that nearly all who saw him thought his recovery impossible. A council of able physicians could give us but the faintest hope of his ever rallying; two of the number declaring that he was beyond the reach of human remedies, that even amputation could not save him, as he had not vigor enough to endure the operation. Just then we commenced giving him Vegetine, and from that time to the present he has been continuously improving. He has lately resumed his studies, thrown away his crutches and cane, and walks about cheerfully and strong.

Though there is still some discharge from the opening where the limb was lanced, we have the fullest confidence that in a little time he will be perfectly cured.

He has taken about three dozen bottles of Vegetine, but lately uses but little, as he declares that he is too well to be taking medicine.

Respectfully yours,
E. S. BEST,
MRS. L. C. F. BEST.

A DEMAND ON MR. HAYES.

The Stalwart Sentiment of the North as Reflected by Its Organ.

Lemars Sentinel,

Now, Rutherford Burchard Hayes, President of the United States in defiance of the constitution of the United States, counted in by Zach Chandler, and placed on the chair by Grant, taken from the gutter and seated on the throne, are you a man or a mouse? Such an opportunity as is now within your grasp, comes but once in an era, and when utalized serves to mark the beginning of new epochs. Are you a dunghill rooster? A bubble floating along on the turbulent waves of destiny, or a master-spirit evoked from the laboring ages? A fraud or a fact? Rutherford, from your eyrie cast your eye to the Southland, from swaggering Kentucky to lying Louisiana, from chafling Carolina, across cowardly Mississippi to brutal Texas, and note the camp-fires of rebellion and hate, burning in the eyes of the baffled traitors who sought to destroy this Nation. Note red-handed murderers an[illegible] day assassins, in places of honor [illegible] viding one can conceive of an honorable place in such a land), and fanning anew the flames of treason; see there, down in Yazoo, in old Mississippi, Yazoo, the pride and glory of Rebeldom, the home of cowardly cut-throats and States rights; the lair of human butchers and State sovereignity; the entrenched haunt of political assassination and last ditch of State lines, the invulnerable citadel of murder and roaring champion of State constitutions; the port cullis of treason and implacable enemy of the Nation; we say, Rutherford, look down there, take your cue (if we were sure you were a reality and not a sham, we would say inspiration instead of cue), proclaim the States of Missippi and Louisiana in open rebellion against the Nation, and declare every State of the old rebel Confederacy into a state of seige. Rutherford, dare you? The man who dares not is lost, or drifts along like a maggot on a chip into the oblivion from which he should never have emerged. Thirty millon loyal hearts are behind you, Rutherford, ready to echo the first note that tells of a grand strong purpose. This is a nation, Rutherford, dare you say it? It takes a giant to pronounce the word from the lofty eminence you occupy, a giant with lungs of leather and thews of brass. Rutherford, are you the man? Issue the proclamation. Appoint Ben Butler military governor of the insurrectionary provinces, with headquarters at Yazoo City, in old Mississippi; call an extra session of Congress; exclude therefrom every so-called senator and representative from the rebellious territory, and with a loyal legislature begin the great work of molding a plastic Nation into form. This is the heroic method, and requires a hero in the van. Rutherford, we fear you are not the man on horseback. The white-winged couriers of the deep will bring him from the Orient, where he is now arbitrating the affairs of empires whose history takes root in the mists of an antiquity measured by thousands of years. Grant, the simple citizen, smoking his cigar, the statesman without an equal, the soldier without a peer, is coming, he, for whom the loyal North watches and waits.

Cuticura

REMEDIES

Infallibly Cure all Skin and Scalp Diseases, Scaly Eruptions, Itchings, and Irritations

The testimonials of permanent cures of Skin and Scalp Diseases which have been the torture of a lifetime by the Cuticura Remedies, are more wonderful than any methods or remedies known to the medical profession.

Cuticura Resolvent, a powerful Blood Purifier, is the only purifying agent which finds its way into the circulating fluid and thence through the oil and sweat glands to the surface of the skin, thus destroying the poisonous elements with which those vessels have beendaily charged.

Cuticura, The Great Skin Cure, applied externally, arrests all unnatural or morbid growth which cover the surface of the diseased glands and tubes with Scaly, Itching, and Irritating Humors, speedily it removes them leaving the pores open, healthy, and free from diseased particles of matter.

Thus internally and externally do these great remedies act in conjunction, performing cures that have astonished the most noted physicians of the day.

Salt Rheum for 30 Years

On the Head, Face, and Greater Parof the Body, Cured.

Messrs. WEEKS & POTTER: Gentlemen, I have been a great sufferer with Salt Rheum for 30 years, commencing in my head and face and extending over the greater part of my body. I have taken gallons of medicines for the blood of different kinds and tried good physicians,all of which did me no good, and I came to the conclusion that I could not be cured. But a friend called my attention to an article in the Union on skin diseases, and I got a box of Cuticura. The first application was a great relief and the third took the scales all off, and I felt like a new man. I have used three 50-cent boxes and my skin is smooth and I consider myself entirely cured. Hoping that this may be seen by some one afflicted as I have been (if there is any) is my earnest wish. And I cheerfully recommend it to all persons afflicted with like diseases. Yours truly,

B. WILSON LORD.

AGAWAM, MASS., Sept. 9, 1878.

The Cuticura Soap should be used for cleansing all diseased surfaces, as most soaps are injurious to the skin.

LEPROSY.

A Modern Miracle. Astonishing Results from the use of Cuticura.

Messrs. WEEKS & POTTER: Gentlemen.—We have a case of Leprosy in our poorhouse which is being cured by your Cuticura remedies The county had employed all of our doctors and had sent to New York for advice, but to no avail.

The patient commenced using the Cuticura and immediately began getting better. He had been confined to his bed for two and one half years. Had not had his clothes on during this time. Last week he dressed for the first time.

When he walked, there would at least one quart of scales come off of him.

This happened every day.

We think it is a wonderful cure.

We do not think he is cured, but he is in a fair way to be cured to say the least.

Yours truly,

DUNNING BROTHERS,
Druggists and Book sellers.

ALLEGAN, MICH., Feb. 11, 1879.

NOTE.—Messrs. Dunning Brothers are thoroughly reliable gentlemen, and were unknown to us prior to the receipt of this letter. We firmly believe this Cuticura will permanently cure this very severe case of Leprosy, as it has done many others.

Prepared by Weeks & Potter, Chemists and Druggists, 360 Washington Street, Boston, Mass., and for sale by all Druggists and Dealers. Price of Cuticura, small boxes, 50 cents; large boxes containing two and one half times the quantity of small, $1. Resolvent, $1 per bottle. ——Mr. S. C. Dewey, agent for Mosler, Bahmann & Company's safes, is in town. These safes are highly spoken of, and Messrs. M. T. Norris & Company and Latta & Myatt have given them a trial and pronounce them satisfactory in every respect.

Hereafter they will dry their lumber by steam, having made arrangements for the purchase of a steam dry kiln. No alarm was sounded, as the fire made such rapid headway that the whole building was consumed before any efforts could be made to save it.

——Mr. C. A. Hege, of Salem, the proprietor of the Salem Agricultural works, is one of North Carolina's most enterprising and successful sons. From a small beginning he has worked up a large manufacturing establishment, the like of which would do credit to Richmond, Baltimore, or even Chicago. And now he has just completed a splendid brick mansion, which, for architectural beauty, elegance of finish and convenience, is rarely surpassed. He deserves success.

The cotton year closed on the 31st of August and we give above the receipts in our market for the past six years, with the closing prices of our market each year. It will be seen that there has been a steady increase in receipt each year, and it is believed that with our increased facilities for handling and shipping cotton we may expect our receipts for the coming year to greatly increase. Every inducement in prices and prompt sales and returns will be offered to shippers to send their cotton to our market.

A New Hanover County Darkey Visits Raleigh, and Makes a Few "Obsumwations."

The old man drew rein at Exchange Place, having driven all the way from New Hanover, and he and "Jake," (a diminutive mule, and the partner of all his joys and sorrows) began panting and puffing and blowing worse than two Mississippi river steamboats. He was a queer looking old darkey, with a head of wool as white as cotton, and from the way he gazed about him we at once concluded he was a stranger. The NEWS man, at his wits end for an item, accordingly approached him. Just as we were about to remark something, he produced from the remaining pocket of his thread-bare old army jacket, a ponderous red handkerchief, and proceeded to a vigorous pulling and blowing of his rather prominent nasal organ.

The first discharge brought Billy Carter, the urbane janitor of the market, to his feet, and before he could recover himself from his astonishment the second explosion precipitated both Billy and his dusting brush into the "city spittoon."

The remaining blasts, sounded each like a volley from an hundred gatling guns, and before the old man wound up, you would have sworn Niagara Falls wer'nt 30 feet distant; that exactly 19 earthquakes were in full operation in the next ward, the world on fire and the "old boy" and the Raleigh Light Artillery were then and there engaged in a pitched battle.

After we concluded the danger was over (having made a speedy retreat after the "boom") we retraced our steps and remarked that he seemed to be a stranger in these parts.

"Yes, sah!" he replied "an wud yu purlitely reform me ef dis am de city ob Rawley, sah?"

He was assured that it was.

"Den sah, I wants ter kno why dat ar frunt streat aint macerdermized, 'stead ob habin all dem holes ob mub dar sah! An why, O! why sah,—good gracious! man, wot iz dem geese and dat hog er doin loose o . de streats? An bress my gizzard ef dar aint a lot ob cows! I iz 'shamed ob my nativ State. Dis grate nation ob Norf Carleneans cant 'sport er better town dan dis fur dere capitul. I hiv had a strong notion ob duin it sumtime, an now I will, I shurely will! 'Jake, we'll jine de exodus!"

There he commenced to week.

We cast, what would have been a lingering, gaze at the old man as the tears rolled down his cheeks; but about that time we saw him reach for that same red handerchief, and as soon as the first bit of red calico hove into sight, we hove out of sight and taking to our heels made for the NEWS office, where we tried to respect our acoustic organs by stuffing cotton in our ears. But it was no use, we could hear him at intervals like the distant booming of cannon, and pretty soon there was such a racket overhead that the cotton was withdrawn to learn, if possible, what that meant.

The NEWS' typos were all tearing down stairs at a break-neck speed and it took all our eloquence to convince them that the noise they heard was not the fire bell.

Curious parties can get more definite information by interviewing Mr. Billy Carter, who did not enjoy the affair to a very great degree, on account of having ruined a new suit of clothes. That spittoon had not been cleaned that morning!

Ellington, Royster & Company.

Among the most gratifying evidences of the progress of this city's industries is the steady advancement of the business of our contractors and builders. In no instance is this fact more pronounced than it is with the firm above named. They have been engaged in the business of architects and builders for the past eighteen months, having purchased the establishment of Betts & Allen early in 1878. They have succeeded in building a fine reputation for themselves as well as a large number of buildings for the citizens of Raleigh and other towns in the State. They are reliable workmen, prompt and accommodating, and enjoy an extensive patronage.

Useful to Everybody.

The Johnson Revolving Bookcase, is a handsome parlor ornament and is warranted to give perfect satisfaction to every purchaser. They are in daily use throughout the United States and are growing in popularity. Send to Alfred Williams & Co., Raleigh, for illustrated circular.

BOVINE, MISSISSIPPI, April 22, 1879. —The following correspondence will explain itself: A. WADDILL, ESQ., LYNCHBURG, VA.—Dear Sir: Observing a certificate from you in reference to the "Iron and Alum Mass," of the Seven Springs, in Washington county, Va., in relation to its efficacy for Liver Diseases, would you have the kindness to inform me whether you used the "Mass" or the "Water;" also, a description of the symptoms and such other information as you may deem pertinent. I am a long-time sufferer with Liver Complaint, and naturally feel very anxious on the subject of a remedy that will afford me even temporary relief. Your early reply will greatly oblige, very respectfully,
WILLIAM BARR.

LYNCHBURG, Va., May 12, 1879.—WM. BARR, Esq., Bovine, Mississippi—Dear Sir: Your inquiry in regard to the "Liver case" which was effectually cured in my family from using the "Seven Springs Mass," is before me. The case referred to in my certificate was that of my wife's sister, who is now in her 80th year, and has been a member of my family for the last 27 years. She had been afflicted with Liver Disease for 30 years, sometimes almost dying with pains in the back, breast, and heaviness of the chest, heart-burns (intensely), sick stomach, vomiting, &c. I procured a few bottles of the "Mass" for her, and very soon after she began the use of it, her health commenced to get better, and she continued steadily to improve, and at this writing, so old, seemingly in as good health as a person who had never been afflicted with these diseases. She attributes her cure entirely to the efficacy of the "Seven Springs Mass." I regard it one of the greatest family medicines we have access to, not only for such diseases as above indicated, but for various other complaints for which it is recommended. Hoping these answers satisfactory, I am, very truly, A. WADDILL, Proprietor Lynchburg News.

"Let Them Not be Confounded!"

There is so much said in the papers of the day about the action of the Constitutional Convention of the State of Louisiana just adjourned, that it is but proper to notify, the people, that the State indebtedness in no way affects the management and the plans of the Louisiana State Lottery Company, which, since its incorporation in 1868, has never sealed its scemes or postponed its drawings, but, with strict integrity, has observed its pledges to the public inviolate, and has hence derived a popuiarity unheard of since the days when General George Washington drew a lottery under the authority of the Continental Congress, to carry on the War for Independence. The next—the 112,—monthly drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery will occur on Tuesday September 9th, and any information can be had on application to M. A. Dauphin, P. O. Box 692 New Orleans, or the same at No. 310 Broadway, New York City.

Weather Probabilities.

Cold, with high winds and rain. Exposure to this weather is sure to produce colds and kindred diseases; and the best remedy we know of is Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. Always keep it in the house, and you will be on the safe side.

An old physician retired from practice had placed in his hands by an East Indian missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure of consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and using, in German, French or English. Sent by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. W. Shearar, 149 Powers Block, Rochester, N. Y. Weow7m.
